Dealing with cancer can be tough on patients and their loved ones. Surviving cancer also has its challenges, some of them lasting a lifetime.

The more we know about how cancer affects survivors, the better we are able to help them lead their best possible lives.

Research being done at the California School of Professional Psychology at Alliant International University, Los Angeles is geared towards learning more about how cancer impacts people. Participants take an online survey.

Are you eligible?

- 18 – 65 years of age
- Fluent in English
- Been diagnosed and treated for a non-central nervous system cancer within the past 10 years
- In remission for over one year
